Why is Jim running again for Commissioner after already giving years of public service to the County?

It's because voters asked him to.

They are frustrated by the lack of progress in the county. Citizens want more investment in infrastructure, Public Safety and affordable housing. They are tired of the Commission not working together to solve problems. Jim has a proven record of improving the lives of residents. Here are just a few recent quotes of what voters are saying:

"Jim is such an asset to the County!"

"I pray the residents know you're the best man for the job!"

"Jim has the experience and ability we desperately need to get things done."
